She said that she wants to talk about what can be recommended for her nerves. She said that she notices on her right side and it pinches in her lower back and she doesn't want to have surgery. She said that shes trying PT and exercise. She said that she has noticed that the nerves on the right side hands and feet aren't great. She said that she doesn't like medications. She doesn't like the blood pressure machine and it gives her anxiety. She said that she runs 4 times a week in cali and its 4.82 miles and that she does yoga and weights.

Pt is interested in getting medicine for her numbness/tingling. She has been staying active, she runs, does pilates, and yoga. Dr. Duke wants for her to have surgery however she is trying to hold off on having surgery.

Pt complains of tingling in the sole of her right foot. This is intermittent in nature. Pt also mentions that her hands sometimes when she is doing weights her fingers get stuck. After doing some massages it goes away. This all started around last year however it has been worsening recently. Pt denies experiencing any weakness on her hands, denies dropping any objects. Pt denies any numbness/tingling anywhere else. Pt also denies any neck pain. Tingliness is not severe enough for her to want to take medicine.

Low back pain is exacerbated when she is resting. Pain radiates down her RLE. This is intermittent in nature.
