History of Present Illness

A 79-year-old male with hypertension, prior tobacco use, and recent changes in sleep medication presents for evaluation of low oxygen saturation and new-onset gait instability.

Since March 27, 2026, he has experienced significant unsteadiness while walking, requiring assistance and a walker at home. This visit marks his first outing since these symptoms began. Supplemental oxygen has been used at home, with saturation consistently around 87% by pulse oximeter, dropping further when oxygen is removed. He does not report shortness of breath. A caregiver recommended oxygen use due to episodes of confusion. There is no history of chronic lung disease, though he has seen a pulmonologist and underwent evaluation during a prior hospitalization. He quit smoking 45 years ago.

Sleep disturbances developed following a reduction in Seroquel dosage from three to two, and then to one tablet, a change made during a hospital admission due to low blood pressure. He currently takes Seroquel 300 mg at night and mirtazapine but continues to have difficulty sleeping through the night, often waking at 2 or 3 AM and sleeping on the couch. His appetite remains stable.

Blood pressure is managed with amlodipine 5 mg daily.

SOCIAL HISTORY
- Quit tobacco 45 years ago
- Reports disrupted sleep, waking at 2–3 AM and sleeping on the couch
